WORK-001 | WORKING SCHEDULE

What are the normal working hours and core collaboration hours?

The standard full-time schedule is 40 hours per week, ordinarily Monday through Friday, subject to the employment agreement and local requirements. Teams observe core collaboration hours from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. in the employee's assigned office time zone. Managers may coordinate different arrangements for client coverage or accessibility needs. Core hours are a collaboration window, not an instruction to work without breaks.

WORK-002 | HYBRID WORK

How many days per week may an eligible employee work remotely?

An employee in a role approved for hybrid working may ordinarily work remotely up to two days per week, with the reporting manager's agreement and subject to operational needs. Remote days must be visible on the team calendar. This arrangement is not automatic for roles requiring onsite facilities or customer coverage. Managers may agree temporary changes, but any ongoing change should be documented with People Operations.

WORK-003 | CROSS-BORDER REMOTE WORK

Can I work remotely from another country during personal travel?

Do not work from another country without written approval obtained in advance from both People Operations and Information Security. A manager's informal agreement alone is insufficient because cross-border work may affect employment, tax, security, and data-access obligations. Submit the proposed country, dates, and work activities before departure. Approval may include conditions or may be declined; silence is not approval.

WORK-004 | UNPLANNED ABSENCE

How should an employee report an unplanned absence?

Notify the reporting manager as early as possible and, when reasonably feasible, before 9:30 a.m. in the assigned office time zone. Record the absence in the People Operations portal once access is available. If the absence relates to illness, the sick-leave rules also apply, including the medical certificate requirement for more than two consecutive working days. A teammate should not submit a record using another employee's account.

WORK-005 | OVERTIME

Can an employee claim overtime for additional hours?

Overtime must be approved by the reporting manager before the additional hours are worked, except where emergency response makes advance approval impracticable. Record approved hours in the time-tracking system with a short explanation of the work performed. Eligibility for payment or time off in lieu depends on the employee's contract and applicable local law. Merely remaining online after core hours does not by itself create an approved overtime claim.

WORK-006 | CONNECTIVITY ISSUES

What should I do if my internet connection fails while working remotely?

Notify the reporting manager through an available approved channel as soon as practical, ideally within 30 minutes of identifying a prolonged outage. Attempt a secure alternative such as a company-approved mobile hotspot. Do not use an unsecured shared computer or disable security controls to remain online. If productive work cannot continue, agree on an alternate location, task, or leave arrangement and record any schedule change.
